This one-hour talk will focus on the life of a 19th century American woman whose words and works have changed the world. A lifelong search for health, a desire to help suffering humanity, and love for God led Mary Baker Eddy to discover how Christ Jesus overcame all diseases, discords, and death. She not only became a successful healer but also taught others her Christ-based system of spiritual healing, which she denominated Christian Science.

While her human accomplishments were unparalleled, the most important legacy Mary Baker Eddy left to the world was a practical understanding of God — and God's entire creation — as purely spiritual and completely good.

Tony Lobl's articles on spirituality and health have appeared in The Huffington Post, The Washington Post, and other online news sites. Lobl has a public healing ministry and is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.
